The scoop on Stoops
Head coach outlines strategy to avenge last season's loss to Utah
Headline: Sports, 13

Graduate student council wants a spot on board that would find Likins' replacement
Headline: News, 3

AZ RICHARD WILDCAT
Since 1899
Tuesday, August 30, 2005
The University of Arizona, Tucson

wildcat.arizona.edu

Quick Hits
Bush pledges to work with states to address immigration

By Troy J. Acevedo
Arizona Daily Wildcat

The committee tabbed with picking the next UA president must first define their expectations and establish criteria before they can begin selecting candidates.

The Associated Press

Daily Wildcat

Katrina swamps Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS — Announcing itself with shrieking, 145-mph winds, Hurricane Katrina slammed into the Gulf Coast just outside New Orleans yesterday, submerging entire neighborhoods up to their roofs, swamping Mississippi's beachfront casinos and blowing out windows in hospitals, hotels and high-rises.

For New Orleans — a dangerously vulnerable city because it sits mostly below sea level in a bowl-shaped depression — it was not the apocalyptic storm forecasters had feared.

But it was plenty bad, in New Orleans and elsewhere along the coast, where scores of people had to be rescued from rooftops and attics as the floodwaters rose around them.

At least five deaths were blamed on Katrina — three people killed by falling trees in Mississippi and two killed in a traffic accident in Alabama. And an untold number of other people were feared dead in flooded neighborhoods, many of which could not be reached by rescuers because of high water.

"Some of them, it was their last night on Earth," Terry Eibert, chief of homeland security for New Orleans, said of people who ignored orders to evacuate the city of 480,000 over the weekend. "That's a hard way to learn a lesson."

"We pray that the loss of life is very limited, but we fear that is not the case," Louisiana Gov. Kathleen Blanco said.

Katrina knocked out power to more than a million people from Louisiana to the Florida's Panhandle, and authorities said it could be two months before electricity is restored to everyone. Ten major hospitals in New Orleans were running on emergency backup power.

The federal government began rushing baby formula, communications equipment, generators, water and ice into hit areas, along with doctors, nurses and first-aid supplies. The Pentagon sent experts to help with search-and-rescue operations.

Katrina was later downgraded to a tropical storm as it passed through eastern Mississippi, moving north at 21 mph. Winds were still a dangerous 65 mph, however, and that as the storm moves north through the nation's midsection over the next few days, it may spawn tornadoes over the Southeast and swamp the Gulf Coast and the Tennessee and Ohio Valleys with a potentially deadly 8 inches or more of rain.

Oil refineries said damage to their equipment may force them to stop production. Oil prices dropped back from the day's highs above $70 a barrel.

Religious groups funded by ASUA

By Zach Colick
Arizona Daily Wildcat

ASUA gave out more than $2,000 to the Priority College Ministry, which is a part of the First Southern Baptist Church of Tucson.

Herrtrog said they have funded religious events before, including ones held by the Hillel Foundations, Campus Crusade for Christ and the Asian Bible Fellowship.

"As long as there is student interest we usually support it," she said.

The College Ministry said more than 30 minutes of mulling the presentation, which was enough for the ASUA senate to OK allocating the large sum to the religious organization after more than 30 minutes of mulling the meeting to an event sponsored by the Priority College Ministry, which is a part of the First Southern Baptist Church of Tucson.

ASUA, page 11

Accounting senior Deborah Lock interned at the First Southern Baptist Church and is part of Priority College Ministry, a UA campus group that received funding from ASUA.

Search, page 10

The University of Arizona, Tucson

Board will set criteria for Likins' successor

By Troy J. Acevedo
Arizona Daily Wildcat

The committee tabbed with picking the next UA president must first define their expectations and establish criteria before they can begin selecting candidates.

Chairman Fred Boice and other committee members will begin developing these criteria at next week's meeting to get the ball rolling in employing a new UA president come June.

"The committee is together, the consultants have been hired, but until the first meeting, we really don't really have too much to go on," said Boice, treasurer of the Arizona Board of Regents.

The search could be more difficult than planned, however, because other universities are also looking for a new president, like the University of Texas and University of North Carolina, Boice said.

Committee members that were capable of properly representing the interests of all parties across campus

Search, page 10

Quick Hits
Bush pledges to work with states to address immigration

By Troy J. Acevedo
Arizona Daily Wildcat

The committee tabbed with picking the next UA president must first define their expectations and establish criteria before they can begin selecting candidates.

Chairman Fred Boice and other committee members will begin developing these criteria at next week's meeting to get the ball rolling in employing a new UA president come June.

"The committee is together, the consultants have been hired, but until the first meeting, we really don't really have too much to go on," said Boice, treasurer of the Arizona Board of Regents.

The search could be more difficult than planned, however, because other universities are also looking for a new president, like the University of Texas and University of North Carolina, Boice said.

Committee members that were capable of properly representing the interests of all parties across campus

Search, page 10

Religious groups funded by ASUA

By Zach Colick
Arizona Daily Wildcat

ASUA gave out more than $2,000 to the Priority College Ministry, which is a part of the First Southern Baptist Church of Tucson.

Herrtrog said they have funded religious events before, including ones held by the Hillel Foundations, Campus Crusade for Christ and the Asian Bible Fellowship.

"As long as there is student interest we usually support it," she said.

The College Ministry said more than 600 students had already shown interest in coming to the event during their presentation, which was enough for the ASUA senate to OK allocating the large sum to the religious organization after more than 30 minutes of mulling the meeting to an event sponsored by the Priority College Ministry, which is a part of the First Southern Baptist Church of Tucson.

ASUA, page 11

Accounting senior Deborah Lock interned at the First Southern Baptist Church and is part of Priority College Ministry, a UA campus group that received funding from ASUA.