A murder suspect was shot after a high-speed car chase yesterday evening north of campus on Mountain Avenue. He was later pronounced dead at University Medical Center.

Man dead after police chase

By Aubrey McDonnell
ARIZONA DAILY WILDCAT

A murder suspect died yesterday evening after he led police on a high-speed chase near campus, officers said.

The Tucson Police Department was conducting surveillance on the man's house near North Stone Avenue and North Sixth Avenue when the unnamed man drove off in his white sport-utility vehicle, said TPD Lt. Vicki Reza.

The suspect then led police on a high-speed chase until he crashed his SUV into a pole on Mountain Avenue north of East Lee Street, Reza said.

The man then ran from police into the alley and backyards of nearby houses, Reza said.

Ashley Connors, an education junior, witnessed the chase in her backyard.

"There were literally a dozen cops surrounding our house," Connors said. "I thought it was a SWAT team doing a drug bust or something. It seemed to be this horrendous ordeal."

Connors said police chased the man through her yard and into her neighbor's yard. The suspect tripped and dropped a gun he was carrying, Connors said.

The gun went off and the man was shot, police said.

The suspect was rushed to University Medical Center where he died.

Lawlessness in New Orleans

Death toll rises; gunfire delays rescue efforts

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW ORLEANS — New Orleans descended into anarchy yesterday, as corpses lay abandoned in street medians, fights and fires broke out and storm survivors battled for seats on the buses that would carry them away from the chaos. The tired and hungry seethed, saying they had been forsaken.

"We have individuals who are scared of the locals. We might get missing. "I'm scared of riots. I'm scared of the locals. We might get caught in the crossfire."

Four days after Hurricane Katrina roared in with a devastating blow that inflicted potentially thousands of deaths, the frustration, fear and anger mounted, despite the promise of help and relief they could find. But the bedding was packed with people without food, water or medical care. And those rescued from rooftops, attics and storm survivors battled for seats on the buses that would carry them away from the chaos.

"This is a desperate SOS," Nagin said in hopes of defusing the situation and don't anticipate enough buses."

In the night of the storm, a makeshift staging area for those rescued from rooftops, attics and highways. The sidewalks were packed with people without food, water or medical care, and with no sign of law enforcement.

Labor Day weekend means DUI checkpoints

By Holly Wells
ARIZONA DAILY WILDCAT

Many students believe a three-day weekend is just one more reason to party, but sobriety checkpoints may influence some plans.

The Pima County Sheriff's Department and the Southern Arizona Driving Under the Influence task force will be setting up sobriety checkpoints tomorrow for the first time in nearly 10 years.

The operation will start at 10 p.m., and the location of the checkpoints will be announced tomorrow, according to the release.

"Friends will drive me or else I'll just crash somewhere," he said. "It's too risky to drive even if you only drink a little."

This year 15 people have died on Pima County roads in accidents involving alcohol, the release stated.

Between January and July of this year, the Pima County Sheriff's Department has given out more than 1,000 DUIs, according to the release.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

Many students believe a three-day weekend is just one more reason to party, but sobriety checkpoints may influence some plans.

The Pima County Sheriff's Department and the Southern Arizona Driving Under the Influence task force will be setting up sobriety checkpoints tomorrow for the first time in nearly 10 years.

The operation will start at 10 p.m., and the location of the checkpoints will be announced tomorrow, according to the release.

Aerospace engineering junior Shane Donovan, who is going to a friend's party this weekend, said the checkpoints are a bummer.

"Friends will drive me or else I'll just crash somewhere," he said. "It's too risky to drive even if you only drink a little."

This year 15 people have died on Pima County roads in accidents involving alcohol, the release stated.

"Friends will drive me or else I'll just crash somewhere," he said. "It's too risky to drive even if you only drink a little."

This year 15 people have died on Pima County roads in accidents involving alcohol, the release stated.

Between January and July of this year, the Pima County Sheriff's Department has given out more than 1,000 DUIs, according to the release.

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"It doesn't drink."

"It seems like a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.

"I think it's a good idea. It will make people more accountable," Bryant said.